Senator Jimmy Walker Picked To Defeat Mayor Hylan for Democratic Nomination.

WALKER VICTORY SLAP AT HEARST

Frank D. Waterman Regarded as Certain Winner of G. O. P. Nomination—Hylan May Bolt.

New York, September 14.—(AP)—The biggest police shake-up in the history of the city was ordered today by Commissioner Enright as part of his program for keeping an extraordinary watch on the primary elections.

The commissioner ordered the transfer for 48 hours of all police captains, except those in command of traffic and bridges or assigned to special duty, the mobilizing in station houses for reserve duty of virtually all detectives and pupils in the police academy, and the transfer of virtually all the patrolmen in the city, except part of the traffic division.

In every case, the commissioner announced the officer affected by the order is to be transferred to another borough. He also issued a call for 3,000 members of the police reserves to report for regular police duty.

In a statement explaining the purpose of this shift, the commissioner said:

"Any one who is contemplating any crime against the franchise of this primary election had better reconsider. The police will be so well guarded that an absolutely impartial election is assured. Any one who attempts any ballot frauds will probably get his supper away from his family. I can say frankly to prospective repeaters, gangsters or fraudulent voters 'Be ware.'"

New York, September 14.—With the last flare of red fire dimmed and pleas for the mayoralty nomination at an end, New York waits to tell once more, by the power of its votes, its faith in Al Smith.

For while New York's democratic primary candidates for mayor are Mayor John F. Hylan and State Senator James J. Walker, the contest long ago resolved itself into a question of whether the party would cling to Smith by supporting Walker, his designee, and thus to Tammany Hall.

Greeted everywhere by frenzied crowds as the "next president," Governor Smith's presence has roused every Walker rally into an ovation for himself. Tearing Walker Hylan's record to ribbons and fighting bitter assaults by William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, Smith, political advisers believe, has turned the tide against Hylan and for the choice of Tammany.

Walker and Waterman Favored.

Many political observers place Walker's majority at 100,000, and look for the nomination of Frank B. Waterman, fountain pen manufacturer, over John J. Lyons and William M. Bennett, his opponents in the republican primaries.

With New York overwhelmingly democratic, the republican primaries usually offer a candidate certain to be defeated, but with indications that Hylan will run independently in November.

REPORTS ON COTTON SCORED BY HEFLIN

Public and Press Begin To Take It for Granted He Will Reach Some Kind of Agreement.

Paris, September 14.—(AP)—That Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance, is going to Washington with a strong determination to achieve some sort of settlement of France's debt to the United States is the impression that is growing in political circles.

M. Caillaux, however, is steadfastly keeping his own counsel, and his colleagues on the French debt commission are observing a studied discretion, refusing to give reasons for the optimism which some of them have shown.

The public and press show a tendency to take it for granted that a settlement will be reached at Washington, and accept the necessity of paying with resignation. The press has begun to discuss what is necessary to be done in order that the agreement to be made at Washington may be carried out.

It is pointed out in parliamentary circles that if M. Caillaux succeeds at Washington, this will have a desirable effect on his political situation, in view of the strong opposition which his financial policy is likely to encounter when the preliminary session opens in October.

Stanley Baldwin, premier of England, was the guest of Premier Painleve at luncheon today, and M. Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand also were present. M. Caillaux and Mr. Baldwin had a long conversation, but in French official circles it is asserted that the luncheon was of a non-political character.

Washington, September 14.—Information conveyed in Associated Press dispatches from Paris yesterday that Finance Minister Caillaux was coming to Washington with full authority to negotiate a funding settlement of the French debt to the United States was received by members of the American debt commission with considerable satisfaction.

A debt commission spokesman declared the announcement that M. Caillaux had received instructions only of a broad character from Premier Painleve and that his action would be subject only to the ratification of parliament had considerably clarified the atmosphere. No member could now doubt, he thought, that France "meant business."

"We are extremely gratified to know," he said, "that the mission will come here without strings attached. There would be no use in M. Caillaux and his assistants attempting to negotiate a settlement without the full authority of his government, has given him. We want the French to feel free to talk about this problem with us, but we also want them to know that we expect a settlement."

"Keep Atlanta's Breadline Shortest in World by Providing Building Work," Speaker Urges.

"Atlanta today has the shortest breadline of any large city in the world," Alderman C. M. Ford, of the tenth ward, told more than 500 voters at a city hall bond issue rally at Capitol View Masonic temple Monday night. "We have no breadline," he explained.

"Let's keep this breadline" short by starting a long building program," he urged the voters. "The backwash from the Florida boom already is being felt in Atlanta. Dozens of real estate sales have been made in Atlanta during the last week to people from the north and from other southern states who have settled here after prospecting in Florida.

"We have little or no unemployment now," the alderman asserted, "but if we go to sleep on our civic job we may find that the first detachment of our long sought 500,000 population will be a burden to us rather than a help."

"We know that sooner or later we have got to have a new city hall. Right now, on Wednesday, September 23, we have a chance to vote bonds to get one absolutely free of cost, by an arrangement whereby rentals from outworn and outgrown city property will pay all costs of the new building and leave a big profit to the city besides. We can do this and add earn this profit by voting bonds now because the county will let us get a valuable piece of county property at a fraction of its value."

Church Report Admits That Trend of Social Consequences of Prohibition Is "Disturbing."

FATALITIES SHOW GAIN SINCE 1920

Questionnaire Sent to Thousands of Business Men Yields Predominantly "Wet" Answer.

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—A collection of varied information as to the effect of prohibition on economic conditions and health was made public tonight by the research and education department of the federal council of churches as a part of its report on the prohibition question.

No definite conclusions were stated, but it was remarked in the report that in general the number of deaths from diseases that grow out of liquor drinking showed a drop in 1920, early in the prohibition regime, but an increase in the years thereafter. This was one of the tabulations on which the first section of the report, made public last night, suggesting that the trend of social consequences of prohibition since 1920 had been "disturbing."

On the economic side of the question the report contained these observations:

"Probably no careful observer will say that the abolition of the saloon has not affected a very substantial amelioration of large numbers of the working class."

"At the same time the appeal to specific economic data—increased business activity, growing bank deposits, etc.—to prove the effects of prohibition must be made very gradually. All attempts to measure this increase in quantitative terms are fraught with danger because of the great increase in prosperity since 1924, due to other causes. . . . In addition to the increase in money wages we must consider the extensive thrift campaigns carried on throughout the country. . . . But it would be idle to dispute the assumption that prohibition has been a factor, and an important one, in keeping savings deposits on a high level."

Profit to Industry.

"Good authority can also be found for the statement that industry has profited very materially through heightened morale. . . . It is noteworthy that a questionnaire sent as part of this investigation to a thousand or more business men, directors in important corporations selected at random, asking for their verdicts as business men upon prohibition, yielded a predominantly 'wet' result—not apparently so much because of observed effects upon business or industry as because of strong personal and disinterested sympathy with the social and political results of prohibition as they saw them."

Various sources were drawn upon for the health statistics presented in the report. The census bureau figures were quoted on deaths from alcoholism and cirrhosis of the liver, and the report observed that they showed a drop in 1920 and a rise thereafter except for a drop for cirrhosis in 1923. Officials of Bellevue hospital, New York, were quoted as saying that while more acute and fewer chronic cases were seen.

MAN DIES OF POISON DOSE AFTER WIFE HE HAD SHOT REFUSES RECONCILIATION

Tragedy Dogs Heels of Harris Family

Below are shown C. B. Harris, of 310 Central avenue, who Monday committed suicide by drinking poison, and his wife and their son. On July 22 Harris shot and seriously wounded his pretty wife in a domestic quarrel and turned his pistol upon himself, inflicting a minor scalp wound when the bullet ricocheted from his skull. Harris had since been indicted and his wife had instituted divorce proceedings.

HARRIS SUICIDE FOLLOWS ATTACK ON WIFE IN JULY

Said To Have Been Grief-Stricken Over Fact That Wounded Mate Had Sought Divorce.

SECOND SUICIDE ATTEMPT SUCCEEDS

Assailant Had Been Indicted on Charge of Assault With Intent To Murder.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Crazed with grief because she shot his wife on July 22, because she later filed suit for divorce, and because of the added fact that she had repeatedly repulsed his efforts to reconcile their differences, C. B. Harris, 29, Monday afternoon ended his life by drinking poison at his home, 310 Central avenue.

"He had brooded all day long," Mrs. Gussie Harris, his mother, told police. "He was almost wild with excitement. Late this afternoon I heard him scream, and I rushed to his room. He told me he had swallowed the contents of a bottle of poison."

Harris was rushed to Grady hospital, where he died half an hour later.

Shoots His Wife.

Harris shot his pretty young wife on July 22 as the culmination of a domestic quarrel. He fired at her five times, and one bullet penetrated her abdomen, but when he turned the gun on himself and fired the only remaining cartridge at his head, he inflicted only a scalp laceration. He was sent to police headquarters, after treatment for this trifling wound at Grady hospital, and there was unable for some hours to give a coherent account of what happened. He tearfully expressed his sorrow over what had occurred and prayed that his wife might recover.

Mrs. Julia Harris, the wife, could not be located Monday night, but she was said to have returned to the home of her mother in Hesperide.

After she had recovered from her wound she filed suit for divorce from her husband and on September 4 the Fulton county grand jury indicted Harris on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

The shooting followed continual quarreling for some time, according to both Harris and Mrs. Harris. Financial troubles had forced them to give up a home they had purchased and this incident had worried Harris. When he reached home from work the evening of July 22 he told Mrs. Harris he was sick and asked her to telephone for a doctor. She said she advised him to take a dose of dynamite and get some of the meanness out of him.

He slapped her, she told police, and when she reproached him he ran upstairs, snatched his pistol out of his trunk and began firing.

Harris contradicted his wife when he told of the shooting. He charged her with having continually nagged at him, in spite of the fact that he had been in ill health. She had heaped abuse on his head, he said, on the night he shot her.

Harris and his wife had one child, a son, C. B. Jr., who lives with a grandmother in East Point. They had been married six years.

REPORTS ON COTTON SCORED BY HEFLIN

Public and Press Begin To Take It for Granted He Will Reach Some Kind of Agreement.

Paris, September 14.—(AP)—That Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance, is going to Washington with a strong determination to achieve some sort of settlement of France's debt to the United States is the impression that is growing in political circles.

M. Caillaux, however, is steadfastly keeping his own counsel, and his colleagues on the French debt commission are observing a studied discretion, refusing to give reasons for the optimism which some of them have shown.

The public and press show a tendency to take it for granted that a settlement will be reached at Washington, and accept the necessity of paying with resignation. The press has begun to discuss what is necessary to be done in order that the agreement to be made at Washington may be carried out.

It is pointed out in parliamentary circles that if M. Caillaux succeeds at Washington, this will have a desirable effect on his political situation, in view of the strong opposition which his financial policy is likely to encounter when the preliminary session opens in October.

Stanley Baldwin, premier of England, was the guest of Premier Painleve at luncheon today, and M. Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand also were present. M. Caillaux and Mr. Baldwin had a long conversation, but in French official circles it is asserted that the luncheon was of a non-political character.

Washington, September 14.—Information conveyed in Associated Press dispatches from Paris yesterday that Finance Minister Caillaux was coming to Washington with full authority to negotiate a funding settlement of the French debt to the United States was received by members of the American debt commission with considerable satisfaction.

A debt commission spokesman declared the announcement that M. Caillaux had received instructions only of a broad character from Premier Painleve and that his action would be subject only to the ratification of parliament had considerably clarified the atmosphere. No member could now doubt, he thought, that France "meant business."

"We are extremely gratified to know," he said, "that the mission will come here without strings attached. There would be no use in M. Caillaux and his assistants attempting to negotiate a settlement without the full authority of his government, has given him. We want the French to feel free to talk about this problem with us, but we also want them to know that we expect a settlement."

"Keep Atlanta's Breadline Shortest in World by Providing Building Work," Speaker Urges.

"Atlanta today has the shortest breadline of any large city in the world," Alderman C. M. Ford, of the tenth ward, told more than 500 voters at a city hall bond issue rally at Capitol View Masonic temple Monday night. "We have no breadline," he explained.

"Let's keep this breadline" short by starting a long building program," he urged the voters. "The backwash from the Florida boom already is being felt in Atlanta. Dozens of real estate sales have been made in Atlanta during the last week to people from the north and from other southern states who have settled here after prospecting in Florida.

"We have little or no unemployment now," the alderman asserted, "but if we go to sleep on our civic job we may find that the first detachment of our long sought 500,000 population will be a burden to us rather than a help."

"We know that sooner or later we have got to have a new city hall. Right now, on Wednesday, September 23, we have a chance to vote bonds to get one absolutely free of cost, by an arrangement whereby rentals from outworn and outgrown city property will pay all costs of the new building and leave a big profit to the city besides. We can do this and add earn this profit by voting bonds now because the county will let us get a valuable piece of county property at a fraction of its value."

LIQUOR DEATHS UPON INCREASE SINCE DRY LAW

Church Report Admits That Trend of Social Consequences of Prohibition Is "Disturbing."

FATALITIES SHOW GAIN SINCE 1920

Questionnaire Sent to Thousands of Business Men Yields Predominantly "Wet" Answer.

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—A collection of varied information as to the effect of prohibition on economic conditions and health was made public tonight by the research and education department of the federal council of churches as a part of its report on the prohibition question.

No definite conclusions were stated, but it was remarked in the report that in general the number of deaths from diseases that grow out of liquor drinking showed a drop in 1920, early in the prohibition regime, but an increase in the years thereafter. This was one of the tabulations on which the first section of the report, made public last night, suggesting that the trend of social consequences of prohibition since 1920 had been "disturbing."

On the economic side of the question the report contained these observations:

"Probably no careful observer will say that the abolition of the saloon has not affected a very substantial amelioration of large numbers of the working class."

"At the same time the appeal to specific economic data—increased business activity, growing bank deposits, etc.—to prove the effects of prohibition must be made very gradually. All attempts to measure this increase in quantitative terms are fraught with danger because of the great increase in prosperity since 1924, due to other causes. . . . In addition to the increase in money wages we must consider the extensive thrift campaigns carried on throughout the country. . . . But it would be idle to dispute the assumption that prohibition has been a factor, and an important one, in keeping savings deposits on a high level."

Profit to Industry.

"Good authority can also be found for the statement that industry has profited very materially through heightened morale. . . . It is noteworthy that a questionnaire sent as part of this investigation to a thousand or more business men, directors in important corporations selected at random, asking for their verdicts as business men upon prohibition, yielded a predominantly 'wet' result—not apparently so much because of observed effects upon business or industry as because of strong personal and disinterested sympathy with the social and political results of prohibition as they saw them."

Various sources were drawn upon for the health statistics presented in the report. The census bureau figures were quoted on deaths from alcoholism and cirrhosis of the liver, and the report observed that they showed a drop in 1920 and a rise thereafter except for a drop for cirrhosis in 1923. Officials of Bellevue hospital, New York, were quoted as saying that while more acute and fewer chronic cases were seen.

MAN DIES OF POISON DOSE AFTER WIFE HE HAD SHOT REFUSES RECONCILIATION

Tragedy Dogs Heels of Harris Family

Below are shown C. B. Harris, of 310 Central avenue, who Monday committed suicide by drinking poison, and his wife and their son. On July 22 Harris shot and seriously wounded his pretty wife in a domestic quarrel and turned his pistol upon himself, inflicting a minor scalp wound when the bullet ricocheted from his skull. Harris had since been indicted and his wife had instituted divorce proceedings.

HARRIS SUICIDE FOLLOWS ATTACK ON WIFE IN JULY

Said To Have Been Grief-Stricken Over Fact That Wounded Mate Had Sought Divorce.

SECOND SUICIDE ATTEMPT SUCCEEDS

Assailant Had Been Indicted on Charge of Assault With Intent To Murder.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Crazed with grief because she shot his wife on July 22, because she later filed suit for divorce, and because of the added fact that she had repeatedly repulsed his efforts to reconcile their differences, C. B. Harris, 29, Monday afternoon ended his life by drinking poison at his home, 310 Central avenue.

"He had brooded all day long," Mrs. Gussie Harris, his mother, told police. "He was almost wild with excitement. Late this afternoon I heard him scream, and I rushed to his room. He told me he had swallowed the contents of a bottle of poison."

Harris was rushed to Grady hospital, where he died half an hour later.

Shoots His Wife.

Harris shot his pretty young wife on July 22 as the culmination of a domestic quarrel. He fired at her five times, and one bullet penetrated her abdomen, but when he turned the gun on himself and fired the only remaining cartridge at his head, he inflicted only a scalp laceration. He was sent to police headquarters, after treatment for this trifling wound at Grady hospital, and there was unable for some hours to give a coherent account of what happened. He tearfully expressed his sorrow over what had occurred and prayed that his wife might recover.

Mrs. Julia Harris, the wife, could not be located Monday night, but she was said to have returned to the home of her mother in Hesperide.

After she had recovered from her wound she filed suit for divorce from her husband and on September 4 the Fulton county grand jury indicted Harris on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

The shooting followed continual quarreling for some time, according to both Harris and Mrs. Harris. Financial troubles had forced them to give up a home they had purchased and this incident had worried Harris. When he reached home from work the evening of July 22 he told Mrs. Harris he was sick and asked her to telephone for a doctor. She said she advised him to take a dose of dynamite and get some of the meanness out of him.

He slapped her, she told police, and when she reproached him he ran upstairs, snatched his pistol out of his trunk and began firing.

Harris contradicted his wife when he told of the shooting. He charged her with having continually nagged at him,

JARDINE APPROVES PACKERS' MERGER

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine today dismissed the complaint against the Armour-Morris packer merger.

The dismissal was without prejudice, and the opinion warned that "in the event that Armour and company violates any of the provisions of the packers and stock yards act there is ample power and authority in the secretary of agriculture under that act to take appropriate and effective action." Secretary Jardine held that the acquisition by Armour and company of the properties of Morris and company did not in itself constitute a violation of the law, which provides against manipulating or controlling prices, creating a monopoly or restraining commerce.

He pointed out that while congress through the Clayton act specifically forbade the acquisition of a competitor's stock, it refrained in the packers and stock yards act, from any provision with reference to the acquisition of a competitor's business. Neither the purpose nor the effect of the merger, the secretary ruled, involved price-fixing, monopoly or unreasonable restraint of commerce. On the contrary, the opinion said, the evidence shows that the transaction was consummated in order to reduce overhead expenses and to increase the sales of finished products. As to the actual effect of the transaction, the opinion cites evidence intended to show that Armour and company since the merger has controlled less than 25 per cent of the federal tax instituted in slaughter of animals, which is a lower proportion than that controlled by Swift and company, a competing firm. Neither monopoly nor price manipulation to the disadvantage of producer or consumer have occurred, was declared, in the evidence offered in the case.

DR. DODGE DEFENDS PRAYERS FOR RAIN

citizens in matters of religion? The governor of the state, as an individual citizen, might be wise and deeply experienced in religious matters, but surely he should not presume officially as the governor of the state, to tell people to pray for rain.

Dr. Jones questioned the wisdom of praying for the end of the drought. "Who among us," he asked, "the governor and the ministers included, is prepared to say that the drought is an evil? With the infinite complexity of the laws of nature, where even the distant stars play their vital part in every natural result upon this little planet of ours, who knows what beneficent part droughts play in the great universal plan?"

Dr. Jones' reply followed: "Editor Constitution: I have just read a brief summary of the Sunday night sermon of Dr. Asbury Jones, in which he both criticizes the action of the Evangelical Ministers' association of Atlanta for petitioning the governor of the state to issue a proclamation calling the people to pray for rain, and in which he also gives some of his opinions as to the validity of prayer in such a realm."

As president of the ministers' association, presiding over the meeting at which this motion was taken, I would like to make reply to this objection of Dr. Jones, as well as give expression to some of my own opinions on the subject of the validity of prayer under such circumstances—though it must be understood that I am not speaking for the other ministers of this association, and that they are in no way bound by what I say.

Dr. Jones begins his sermon with the explanation that "his remarks were not to be construed as adverse criticism of Governor Walker or the people who requested him to issue the proclamation," and he then expresses confidence in their sincerity "as they thought, best and as their consciences dictated."

A few paragraphs below we read these heated words: "I can think of no more deadly or violent sin than the belief that the establishment of the authority of the Bible is not by the persuasion of love but the strong arm of the law." Is not this an "adverse criticism" both of the governor and of "the belief of the people" (as interpreted by Dr. Jones), who requested him to issue the proclamation? It is very much like the action of a person who lays a small, innocent, persecuted child across his knees and applies the needle to a certain spot on his anatomy, at the same time assuring him that he is not to construe this as a licking.

But the ministers of Atlanta have any idea of calling upon the strong arm of the law, to enforce anything upon the people? "The ministers of Atlanta," says Dr. Jones, "are not to be taken literally, but the ministers of Atlanta simply resorted to the most common method of persuasion, the Christ-promised, Bible-assured privilege of praying to God in a time of need, and believe that their further regarded the governor, not in his capacity as the head of the state, but as the people's father whom he has been elected to rule, and as well as the servant of God in this capacity."

Surely Dr. Jones does not need to be reminded that the theory of church and state union which he reasons—his theory of absolute separation which has been handed down to us by the fathers of the republic—is by no means a fixed and final theory, but that the scholars of our day are more and more coming to the aid of separated what God hath joined together.

There is quite a great difference between a state forcing certain religious forms and beliefs upon religious people in a church, and the nature of the Hebrew commonwealth would serve to stir some fresh thoughts in the subject.

And now just a word as to Dr. Jones' opinion on prayer. I fully agree with him that we are not to construe the drought as a direct punishment sent by God. Life cannot be so intelligently interpreted in terms of such a theology of externalism. The case of the prosperous bad man and that of the poverty-stricken good man at once comes to mind. Is the action of God the only factor at work here? By no means.

But when Dr. Jones intimates that matters in the natural realm are to be considered as altogether outside of the range of prayer, I think that he will have made some kind of compromise with that petition of the Lord's prayer which bids us pray for our daily bread. It is a question of the importance of that provision just now.

Dr. Jones seems nearer the truth in his own concluding words when he says, "Prayer is the method of seeking the wisdom, the strength and the spirit of God, and in solving the problems of the universe," and the basis both of the invitations of the Bible and the spiritual philosophy of the universe, why should not the concentration of good people in prayer be the act of prayer so set in motion the forces of the universe as to bring about a change of things, and so "aid in solving the problems of the universe?"

"D. WITHERSPOON DODGE, Pastor Central Congregational Church, President Evangelical Ministers' Association."

over most of Alabama. Widely scattered showers were reported.

Rain in Prospect. Nashville, Tenn., September 14.—Nashville passed a pleasant day with the temperature ranging from 64 at 6 o'clock to 84 at noon and skies slightly overcast. Rain is in prospect for tonight.

Heat Wave Broken. Chattanooga, Tenn., September 14. While only one-third of an inch of rain fell in this section Sunday it did much toward breaking the heat wave and the temperature dropped to 67 degrees during the night, but began an upward rise soon after sunrise and continued gradually until 1:30 o'clock when it reached 83 degrees.

The indications that it will again get in the 90's by the middle of the afternoon call for a forecast of rain tonight and tomorrow. The rain fall here was not general over the county, but seemed to be centered around Chattanooga. The dust was not even laid on the east side of Missionary Ridge, half a mile outside of the corporate limits.

Heavy Rain at Douglas. Douglas, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—A heavy rain fell here Saturday night, giving untold relief to gardens and fall crops such as cane and potatoes.

The rain appeared to be general throughout this section.

No Rain at Savannah. Savannah, Ga., September 14.—(AP).—Savannah and Chatham county weather continues fair today. There was no rain. The temperature went to 94.

Mercury High at Albany. Albany, Ga., September 14.—(AP).—The mercury continued to hover around the 95-degree mark here today, with no rain in sight.

Fair at Macon. Macon, Ga., September 14.—(AP).—The weather for this vicinity will be fair for the next 24 hours. The highest temperature today was 95.5.

POLICE SHAKEN UP ON ELECTION EVE

venner, if defeated Tuesday, the G. O. P. contests this year are causing a definite interest.

Waterman is the organization choice and is backed by state leaders of the party as former Secretary of State Hughes, Chauncey M. Depew and former Attorney General George W. Wickersham.

Close friends of Hyman admit that the mayor will desert the party, which kept him in city hall for eight years, in the event that he does not run too far behind Walker in the primaries. Congressman F. H. Laguardia, a republican, but listed in Washington as a socialist, is mentioned as Hyman's running mate for either comptroller or president of the board of aldermen. Tammany's hold on the socialist vote in a city campaign would be weakened with Laguardia as an opposing candidate. He has already declared himself for the mayor.

The present primary stands as one of the most bitter in the history of New York. Hyman has charged Governor Smith with conspiring with Wall street to deliver the city into its hands, has attacked Smith's living at a "sumptuous suite" at the Hotel Biltmore and has criticized Senator Walker's personal character and his legal connections with "shady" corporations.

Walker called "Broadway Butterfly." The Hearst newspapers call Walker a "Broadway butterfly" and say that he is planning to turn the city over to the underworld if he is elected. From his home the governor's closest friends admit that this would mean a split delegation for Smith at the 1928 national convention, with possibly the majority of the city's large delegation for the national candidate acceptable to Hearst.

Would Handicap Smith. Without his home state intact behind him, New York's idol would start for the presidential stakes under a severe handicap and could not be a serious contender.

If Walker wins, Copeland must cease his criticisms of Tammany and give whole-hearted support to Smith, or face retirement in 1928, when his term in the senate expires. Copeland has been silent on Smith recently, but some time ago said that the governor was not the leader of the New York state democracy. He modified this statement later.

In the democratic primary, only enrolled party members, nearly 800,000 are permitted to vote. The enrolled republicans vote is less than half that number. Leaders hope for a 50 per cent vote.

G.O.P. Regulars Will Turn Back Upon La Follette

Washington, September 14.—(AP).—Support of the republican national committee will be withheld from Robert M. La Follette, Jr., in the special election in Wisconsin if he is nominated in the republican primary tomorrow.

This declaration was made today by Chairman Butler of the national committee. Whether some other republican candidate will be supported by the national organization, he said, is a matter for the republican senatorial campaign committee to decide.

Robert P. Wiley of Eau Claire, who is opposing Mr. La Follette as a "Coolidge republican" candidate, already has given notice that, in event of his defeat in the primary, he would run in the general election.

Chairman Butler said that, while Mr. La Follette had availed himself of the regular republican machinery in the campaign, he could not be regarded as a republican in view of his position as chief lieutenant to his father in the campaign for the last fall on a platform opposed to that adopted by the republican convention at Cleveland.

SMALL TO RELATE STORY OF HIS LIFE AT CHURCH TONIGHT

The Rev. Sam Small will relate at St. Paul's Methodist church tonight, the story of his life, his conversion and ministry of forty years. During that period it has been recited over 1,200 times to nearly 2,000,000 hearers, scattered in every state of the union. This probably will be its last recital in Atlanta where there are so many yet living who can corroborate it.

Dr. Small's services are drawing unusual crowds to St. Paul's each night. He will conclude his services there next Sunday night.

ment. Recalling that the commander also had expressed willingness to accept the post, if his services were regarded as more valuable in the department than at sea, the secretary remarked that he had "been given his orders and we assume he will obey them."

The court of inquiry into the Shenandoah disaster, which will set in Lakeland, N. J., is headed by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, senior member of the navy general board. Of the six other members of the court, three are naval aviators, including two lighter-than-air pilots, and one is a construction corps officer.

The aviators are Commander John H. Towers, Lieutenant Commander Ralph C. Penney and Lieutenant Commander M. H. Pierce. Captain Lewis B. McBride, of the naval construction corps; Captain Paul Foley, director of the Bellevue (D. C.) experimental laboratory and Captain Frank H. Clarke, aide to the assistant secretary, are the other members.

Captain Foley was designated judge advocate of the court and Commander Pierce will be his advisor. Secretary Wilbur, who a few days ago expressed a belief that another aircraft investigation was "wholly unnecessary," said today that "I am not now opposed and never have been opposed to an investigation such as I joined with the secretary of war in requesting the president to institute."

tion of its cost. Later on, real estate enhancement will wipe out this profit and a new city hall will actually be a cost to the taxpayer.

"Later on we may not need to have public works and new public improvements to give employment to our own skilled labor and to droves of newly arrived unskilled labor. We have that opportunity and that need right here at the same time, subject to our votes September 23. I would feel that I were derelict in my duty as an alderman of the city of Atlanta, as a servant of the people and taxpayer of Atlanta, if I did not come out here and go before every other crowd of voters assembled between now and next Wednesday to point out to them this wonderful opportunity and this urgent need."

A number of candidates for council and the aldermanic board, subject to the primary which is to be held the same date as the bond election, spoke during the meeting.

CANDIDATES ADDRESS RALLY IN TENTH WARD

A number of candidates for aldermanic places in the coming city primary on September 23 Monday night spoke before a large number of voters from the tenth ward in the auditorium of the Masonic temple on Stewart avenue. W. J. Laney presided.

The candidates made addresses: W. B. Hartsfield, alderman from the third ward; Alderman Claude B. Buchanan and his opponent, Dr. A. L. Curtis, both from the eighth ward; Guy Dobbs and Councilman W. C. Jenkins, candidates for alderman from the seventh ward; Tom Smith and John House, candidates for alderman from the twelfth ward; and E. M. Ford, alderman from the tenth ward.

Other speakers at the meeting were: T. Frank Callaway, H. J. Couch and J. O. Wood.

FRIENDS OF ADAMS PREPARE FOR PRIMARY

Citizens of the third ward held a meeting Monday night at the residence of R. C. Ailor, 600 South Boulevard, in the interest of the candidacy of Virgil E. Adams, who is running for council from the third ward. They outlined plans for the coming city primary.

THROUGH SLEEPING CARS

JONES BROTHERS INVOLVED IN PLOT

Baltimore, September 14.—(AP)—Testimony that Neufeld T. Jones, of Washington, superintended the business of the Maryland Drug and Chemical company, prior to the raid on the federal district court today by Mrs. Eva H. England, former bookkeeper.

Mrs. England, granted immunity for appearing before the grand jury was the government's chief witness. She said she was aware of unlawful actions at the company's office, but was assured by Jones and others that "everything would be all right."

Jones and his brother, Winfield, sons of the former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia; Maurice H. Caro, Washington; Isadore Glasser and Simon Kolner, Baltimore, were placed on trial today after pleading not guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by diverting to illegal use alcohol obtained by the drug company on a government permit.

Pleas of guilty were entered by three other defendants, Jesse E. Baker, Charles Baker and William Cohen, of this city.

Questioned as to her bookkeeping methods, Mrs. England testified that her record of expenditures was accurate, but that receipts ostensibly from "hay runs" were "entirely fictitious." Money obtained by the Bakers from illegal sale of alcohol, she said, was noted on her ledgers as receipts from "hay run" sales.

The Jones brothers, Mrs. England said, frequently came here from Washington to inspect the plant and showed an active interest in its operations.

The Jones are alleged by the government to have been the heads of the drug company at the time it was raided, and to have used their father's position to obtain permits for the withdrawal of alcohol during a period of seven months. The defendants deny they had knowledge of illegal diversion of alcohol at their plant or were connected with the law violation.

World War Veteran Is Severely Burned At Lawrenceville

Lawrenceville, Ga., September 14. (Special).—Hugh Holt, World War veteran, age 28, was seriously burned Sunday morning, when his bed caught fire. Mr. Holt was gassed in France in October, 1918, having gone across with the Rainbow division. He was brought to a New York hospital in February, hovering between life and death for some time and was later brought here, where his family could give him attention.

It is said that his little niece lit a pipe for him early yesterday morning and after she left the room, it is thought that he laid back down and probably dropped some fire on the bed clothing which ignited. Hearing his cries for help, his father rushed into the room and burned his hands badly in trying to extinguish the flames.

"Hugh," as he is familiarly known, has been a cripple since he was gassed and was helpless to protect himself against the fire.

He is the son of Colonel and Mrs. R. N. Holt, of Lawrenceville.

W. & A. COMMITTEE WILL MEET TODAY

Settlement of the dispute with Chattanooga over the matter of street extensions through property of the state of Georgia in that city will be considered at 10 o'clock this morning at a meeting of the Western & Atlantic railroad commission in Governor Walker's office.

A new angle on the controversy was created recently by receipt of a letter at the executive offices informing Governor Walker of a hearing on the matter before a board of freeholders in Chattanooga on October 8. This point will probably receive considerable discussion at the meeting.

It is likely that plans will be made today at the meeting for a trip to Chattanooga so that the commission may study the problem at first hand. The joint committees of the house and senate made an inspection of the state's Chattanooga property during the session of the legislature, and appointment of the present commission was an outgrowth of the trip.

Members of the commission are: Senators W. M. Sapp, 43rd; Carl N. Guess, 34th, and Perry T. Knight, 6th, and Representatives Bessie Kepton, Fulton county; B. Dykes, Dodge county; L. P. Wilbur, Warren county; J. M. Murrain, Muscogee county, and J. Q. Smith, Grady county.

FALL REOPENING BANQUET GIVEN BY BROTHERHOOD

An address by Dr. Charles P. MacLaughlin, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, featured the fall reopening banquet of the brotherhood of the church, Monday night. The supper was served by a committee, headed by Mrs. G. A. Anderson and Mrs. L. M. Anderson. The meeting was presided over by J. H. Zeigler, elder of the brotherhood.

"The Need of Increased Attendance at Church Services in Every Congregation in Atlanta," was the subject of Dr. MacLaughlin's address. Announcement was made that the brotherhood would participate in a special congregational visitation on home-coming and rally day, September 27, looking forward to several weeks of go-to-church activity.

JUDGE ROSSER'S AUNT DIES AT STATESBORO

Mrs. R. L. Durence, 62, of Statesboro, Ga., died at her home Sunday, according to information received Monday by Atlanta relatives. Mrs. Durence was a sister of the late Luther Z. Rosser, Sr., of Atlanta, and was an aunt of Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of the Atlanta municipal court. Funeral services were held Monday at the graveside in Decatur cemetery, with Dr. Wallace Rogers officiating.

Mrs. Durence leaves her husband, Dr. R. L. Durence; a brother, Dr. W. A. Rosser, of Bolingbroke, Ga., and three nieces, Mrs. C. B. Shelton, of Atlanta; Mrs. Joseph D. Edy, of Brouville, N. Y., and Mrs. J. B. Hazard, of Asheville, N. C.

APPLICATIONS FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following applications for marriage licenses were filed Monday in the office of the ordinary of Fulton county: Carter, Hughes, 21, and Miss Dal Agnew, 21; Johnson, Hall, 21, and Miss Anna Adams, 22; J. C. Smith, 26, and Miss Gladys Snow, 18.

Husband Refuses To Pay Attorneys For Wife,--Jailed

Judge John D. Humphries signed an order Monday in Fulton superior court to confine Orien Otis Marks in the Fulton county tower until Marks agreed to pay attorney's fees in a recent suit for divorce and alimony filed by Mrs. Jessie Evelyn Marks.

The court granted the divorce when Mrs. Marks, who lives on North Jackson street, testified that her husband abused her. She said that on August 24, 1925, her husband enticed her and her six-year-old daughter into his automobile, drove them to Piedmont park and threatened to drive the car into the lake and drown the whole family. When she protested she said he struck her.

Judge Humphries granted alimony of $25 a month and $50 attorney's fees to Mrs. Marks. Her attorney told the judge that Marks paid the alimony but balked at the attorney fees.

DRIVERLESS AUTO RAMS APARTMENT; NO ONE INJURED

Several persons narrowly escaped injury early Monday when a driverless automobile rolled down the hill on East Ellis street from Peachtree street. The automobile crashed into a telephone pole and then into two brick pillars of the Warrenton apartments, 28 Carnegie way, before being stopped.

The automobile belonged to William Coxe, of Asheville, N. C., a tourist en route to Florida. He had parked the car on the corner while he and his family went to dinner in a nearby cafe. Police believe thieves loosened the brakes in an attempt to steal the car.

MANSION PURCHASE ACTION IS DELAYED

Action in the purchase of the Ansley home in Ansley Park for a governor's mansion was deferred Monday by the mansion commission until a new survey to establish the line of the property has been completed. The commission met Monday in Governor Clifford Walker's office to complete the purchase, but it was learned that before deeds can be drawn land lines must be definitely fixed. The state has agreed to a price of $85,000 for the two pieces of property involved in the transaction, the mansion site proper and three acres of adjacent woodland.

In addition, $5,000 was appropriated by the legislature for mansion furnishings.

MAN IS ATTACKED BY BANDIT SEXTET

Nick Stansell, 24, of 100 Ivy street, was treated at Grady hospital Monday afternoon for a knife wound in the back which he told police was inflicted by one of a group of six negroes who held him up at Auburn avenue and Ivy street shortly after noon Monday.

One of the negroes accosted him and asked for a match, he said. A long knife was produced by one of the group and he was told to hand them his money. When he backed away and called for help one of the negroes stabbed him and fled. Police were unable to find any trace of the men upon arriving at the scene.

ALDERMAN HARTSFIELD NOW ACTING AS MAYOR

Mayor Walter A. Sims was absent from city hall Monday, having accompanied a party to Asheville, N. C. While the mayor is away Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, mayor pro tem., is in charge of city affairs.

Shrine Organization Teams Plan for $1,000,000 Drive

Three of the twenty-one solicitation teams that will seek Atlanta's share of the $1,000,000 building fund which will place Yarnab Temple's new mosque and civic auditorium opposite the Georgian Terrace hotel, at Peachtree and Kimball streets, have been completed and enlistment blanks have been turned over to A. LaVague, chairman of the campaign organization committee.

The first captain to report his team ready for work was Frank B. Jamieson, leader of team No. 20. He was followed by Captains R. D. Bame, of team No. 9, and F. M. Brotherton, of team No. 3.

The plan of having all workers sign an enlistment blank is a new thought in campaign procedure and firmly pledges every man participating in the $1,000,000 effort to give his utmost support.

Personnel of Teams.

The personnel of the three teams thus far completed is as follows: Team No. 3.—F. M. Brotherton, captain; John Gilmore, lieutenant; W. L. Brady, Ralph H. Gordy, W. E. Harrington, Robert F. Maddox, Jr., Eugene Oberdorfer, Ben R. Padgett, Paul C. Smith, Frank M. Spradlin, Patrick H. Winter, William C. Carson, Alvin B. Cates, Paul H. Dobbins, and Fred O. Becker.

Team No. 9.—R. D. Bame, captain; R. L. Schneider, lieutenant; A. G. Huston, F. W. Gorman, Bob Hayes, W. A. Binford, H. H. Cassell, Frank A. Doughman, F. J. Conner, Harold M. Bowcock and F. E. Beckham.

Team No. 20.—Frank B. Jamieson, captain; C. Edward Bucher, lieutenant; S. Tittlebaum, P. E. Williams, G. S. Peck, B. E. Sall, L. F.

Phillips, George L. MacMillan, Wesley Hirschburg, Enrico Leide, Charles H. Hopson, George Kohn, R. N. Littlefield and M. Edwin Correa.

The remaining 18 team captains have until the close of the week in which to file enlistment blanks with their workers' names. A. A. LaVague, organization chairman, stated that he and his committee are well satisfied with progress captains are making.

"While our campaign is not scheduled to begin until October 15," Mr. LaVague said, "as far as the organization committee and its end of the work is concerned we could begin next Monday. The men are mighty anxious to get on this job and get it finished up. They are as confident as members of the executive committee and others that it can be done successfully in record time."

Campaign Plans Ready. "The pledge cards for the use of the team workers are practically ready, and every mechanical detail is in such shape that it is now just a matter of going out and making the solicitation."

Mr. LaVague added that his committee and team captains and lieutenants would have a final luncheon meeting in the Ansley hotel on next Tuesday, at which time a final plan of campaign will be perfected and captains will receive instructions.

Shortly after this meeting teams will get together in groups of four or five so that they can discuss ways and means of finishing up the work as quickly as possible.

A report Monday from the Shrine campaign headquarters in the Ansley hotel stated that the office has been busy answering inquiries and showing visitors plans for the new temple, following announcement in Sunday's papers that tentative sketches had been completed.

According to A. S. Adams, general chairman, plans have found almost unanimous approval.

Central of Georgia Urges Public To Observe Grade Crossing Regulations.

Last year 2,149 people were killed in grade crossing accidents. A much larger number were injured and there was great damage to property. The railroads everywhere are endeavoring to save lives at the grade crossings. The 1925 session of the Georgia Legislature enacted a law requiring drivers of automobiles to come to a full stop at certain crossings, which will be designated by the county commissioners as dangerous and which will be so marked by warning boards. At all other crossings automobilists must reduce speed to six miles per hour.

The Central of Georgia urges that those operating automobiles familiarize themselves with the provisions of this law, and observe it. The states of North Carolina and Tennessee have "Stop Laws." Grand juries in Alabama have recommended that the legislature of that state enact a similar measure. There is increasing recognition that this is a subject for regulation.

Employees of the Central of Georgia are supposed to do their part. At the 1925 Efficiency Meeting of employees, resolutions were passed pledging observance of stop laws by those in the employ of the railroad. The Central of Georgia earnestly appeals for the co-operation of the public in this matter.

The management is doing its part in reducing the perils of grade crossing. Reconstruction of the line between Birmingham and Columbus, Georgia now nearing completion, eliminates forty grade crossings within a distance of one hundred and fifty-six miles. Elsewhere grades are being separated by the construction of viaducts and underpasses. State highway departments and federal authorities are working with the railroads to avoid grade crossing where new highways are built or where old highways are relocated.

The regulations of Georgia and of other states are reasonable and should be obeyed. The Central of Georgia believes that right thinking people will recognize the desirability and the necessity of such measures, intended for the protection of the public, and that they will cheerfully comply with them as they do with municipal regulations of "Boulevard Stops," "One-Way Streets," "Limited Parking Time," "Non-Parking Areas" and the like. Such regulations expedite traffic. Stop Laws at grade crossings are much more important in that they are intended to preserve human life.

The railways are constantly being made safer for those who work for them and for those who ride on their trains. In the last thirty-six years, although the number of railway employees has trebled, there has been a decrease of twenty-six per cent in employee fatalities. In a like period, passenger traffic has also trebled, but there has been a decrease of fifty-three per cent in passenger fatalities.

Grade crossing fatalities, however, in 1924 showed an increase of four hundred and thirty-five per cent over 1890.

Engineers, trainmen and all other employees are required to exercise the greatest possible caution. Crossings are all plainly marked. Many of them are guarded or otherwise protected. But the railroads alone cannot prevent crossing accidents. Those who cross railway tracks must be cautious for their own sake. It is within their power to protect themselves at all crossings.

Public support, through observance of the new Georgia law, of the laws of other states, and common sense precautions is the co-operation that the railways seek.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

Savannah, Georgia, September 15, 1925.

48,160,351 POUNDS OF TOBACCO SOLD

Georgia has sold 48,160,351 pounds of tobacco this season for a total of $6,958,732.25, according to the report issued Monday by the Georgia Cooperative Reporting Service, Peter V. Rice, statistician. The average price per pound is 14.45 cents.

Of the total pounds sold, all was grown in Georgia except about 1,000,000 pounds which came from Alabama and Florida.

The report shows that 3,152,999 pounds were sold last week, at an average price of 10.12 cents. "Most of the tobacco sold last week," says the report, "was trash and common tobacco, barn scraps and floor sweepings."

The following markets are reported as closed: Albany, Alma, Baxley, Dublin, Lyons, Blackshear, Calo, Camilla, Fitzgerald, Habersham, Moultrie, Nashville, Pelham, Quitman, Thomasville, Vidalia, Waycross, Metter and Hazlehurst.

Indications are that the total crop will be approximately 50,000,000 pounds, which will sell for about $7,000,000.

TEXTILE OPERATING EXECUTIVES HOLD CONVENTION TODAY

Problems connected with the shortage of power caused by the drought will be discussed at the meeting of the Textile Operating Executives at 9 o'clock this morning at the Ansley hotel. About one hundred and fifty delegates from southern states are expected to be present.

The meeting will continue throughout the day and will conclude with a banquet tonight at the Ansley hotel. Robert W. Phillips, executive secretary of the Textile Operating Executives, will preside.

Miss Rogers Gained 15 Pounds in Six Weeks

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days or Money Back.

My dear Friends:

After my attack of Flu I was thin, run-down and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunken and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stiff and had lost my appetite. I had read about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and I decided to give them a trial. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Former Partner Of Charles Dawes Dies at New York

New York, September 14.—(AP)—Max Pam, noted lawyer, organizer with Vice President Dawes of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and founder of the University of Notre Dame school of journalism, died today at his home here from a heart attack. He was 60 years old.

Mr. Pam conducted the legal part of the consolidation of the United States Steel corporation in 1901. He was associated with the late E. H. Harriman in the reorganization of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf and allied companies into the Kansas City Southern railroad, of which he was general counsel and director until 1905. He also participated in the reorganization of the B. & O. Southwestern railroad and was associated as counsel with John W. Gates and others in the organization of the American Steel and Wire company. He also was associated as counsel in the organization of the International Harvester company and the National Packing company.

Born in Bohemia in 1865, Mr. Pam came to the United States with his parents in 1868.

CINCINNATI MAN ASKS POLICE AID IN FINDING BABY

An appeal to aid in locating his 18-month-old daughter, Betty Jane, was made Monday to the police by Raymond Burroughs, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who said his wife told him she left the child with an Atlanta family.

Mrs. Burroughs and the child went on a tour of the south with Mr. and Mrs. David Devine, of Cincinnati, her sister and brother-in-law, and upon her return told her husband that she had left the baby in Atlanta, he said. Efforts to locate Mr. and Mrs. Devine had been unavailing, Burroughs declared.

Mausoleum Sold From Bradley Grave To Settle Debts

New York, September 14.—(AP)—The marble mausoleum of the late William Bradley, well-known subway builder and contractor, in Woodlawn cemetery, which cost $250,000, has been sold to pay debts incurred by him. The mausoleum has been transferred to a less pretentious grave.

The mausoleum was bought by a New York realtor, the price being reported at $100,000. Constructed entirely of imported Italian marble and beautifully decorated, the mausoleum is considered one of the most pretentious in the country. It is situated upon the crest of a knoll in the cemetery and is surrounded by a spacious lot.

RECEPTION PLANNED FOR WALES' RETURN

London, September 14.—(AP)—Plans already are being made for a great reception of the Prince of Wales on his return early next month from his voyage to South Africa and South America. The cruiser conveying him is expected to reach Portsmouth October 9.

The Duke of York, next in line of succession to the throne, plans to meet him at the port. The king and queen will await him at the Victoria station in London, where he also will be greeted by other members of the royal family, including Princess Mary and Prince Henry, as well as the cabinet ministers and high officials.

There will be a state reception on the station platform after which the prince will drive to St. James Palace, his bachelor home.

Woman Reports Attack By Hooded Band of Men Who Visited Her Home

Lyons, Ga., September 14.—(Special)—Following a midnight party Friday night of about 75 men, most of whom were hooded, physicians were called to the home of Mrs. Beulah Anderson, who lives near here, who reported finding her lying on the floor with a gash in her temple, which was bleeding profusely. Mrs. Anderson said that a band of Ku Klux came to her home, shot through the door twice, then kicked it down, and tried to force her away. One man, she said, struck her with a pistol, causing the injury on her head.

The men marched through the downtown section of Lyons and were more or less noisy in their demonstration. All appeared to be armed.

AERIAL ASSOCIATION BACKS COOLIDGE MOVE

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—Confidence in the committee named by President Coolidge to investigate aviation was expressed by the executive committee today by a delegation representing the New York chapter of the National Aeronautic association.

Edward R. Rickenbacker, world war flyer, was spokesman for the group, which asked the president to meet at Mitchell field, Long Island, October 10. While taking the invitation under consideration, Mr. Coolidge expressed doubt of his ability to accept. The delegation flew from Washington today in three planes from Mitchell field.

SADDLE STAKE WON BY GENERAL BULLARD

Louisville, Ky., September 14.—(AP)—General Bullard, owned by Henry M. Hobbs, a Montgomery, Ala., winner of the Kentucky state fair, won the Saddle Stake for five-gaited saddle stallions at the horse show here tonight, which was held in connection with the Kentucky state fair.

By winning tonight, General Bullard becomes eligible to compete in the final grand championships stake, which will be held Saturday night. This was General Bullard's second win in the five-gaited saddle stallion event.

PRAIRIE OIL AND GAS PASSES ITS DIVIDEND

Independence, Kans., September 14.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Prairie Oil and Gas company today voted to pass the September dividend on the stock of the company. W. S. Fitzpatrick, chairman, issued a statement saying that the present satisfactory state of the oil industry warranted the anticipation of greatly reduced earnings the remainder of the year.

International Prison Congress Bulletins Reach Mrs. Sharp

Bulletins containing all information concerning the great international prison congress held in London during the month of August were received recently by Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Atlanta Women's club, who was the official representative from Georgia to the congress.

One of the most interesting resolutions adopted in convention, which was carried by an overwhelming majority was the following: "It is necessary that unconvicted and convicted offenders should be physically and mentally examined by specially qualified medical practitioners, and that the necessary services should be installed for this purpose in the institutions. Such a system would help to determine the biological and sociological causes of criminality and to suggest the suitable treatment for the individual offender." The above resolution was unanimously passed by the world prison congress, which was held in London during the month of August.

Another boys' dormitory is under consideration. The girls' dormitory is also to be remodelled as soon as possible.

A gymnasium is also talked of, which has long been looked for by the athletic association of the college.

FEDERAL CONVICTS WILL HELP ERECT WOMAN'S PRISON

John W. Snook, warden of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, Monday began making up a list of 40 inmates of the institution to be assigned to Alderson, W. Va., to assist in construction of a woman's federal prison.

Eighty men already have been sent from the Atlanta prison and the assignment now being arranged will bring Atlanta's quota up to 120. Attorney General J. C. Sargent ordered the list prepared. He will pass on those included, and the men will be moved in about 10 days, it was announced Monday.

Prisoners sent to Alderson are given an additional 10 days good time for each month they serve, and many applications have been made for assignment to the work.

Appalachian Scenic Highway Association To Be Organized Today

Asheville, N. C., September 14.—(AP)—With delegates from Canada and a dozen states in attendance, the organization meeting of the Appalachian Scenic Highway association will begin its three-day session here tomorrow.

Among the score of prominent men on the program of the meeting are governors of four states—Angus W. McLean, of North Carolina; Clifford Walker, of Georgia; John M. Martin, of Florida; and Austin Peay, of Tennessee. Hoke Smith, former governor of Georgia and United States senator, also is to make an address.

It is expected that a proposal will be made during the meeting that the two countries and 12 states interested in the international highway, stretching from Quebec to New Orleans and Tampa, raise a half million dollar fund to be used in making the route better known and to familiarize it to the motor traveling public of America.

GRAND JURY TO ACT IN DRUGGAN SCANDAL

Chicago, September 14.—(AP)—The federal government today announced that grand jury action would be undertaken in the country jail scandal in which it has been revealed that Terry Druggan, beer magnate, has been able to secure a federal prisoner to get out of the jail on numerous occasions. Sheriff P. M. Hoffman said he had learned that Druggan at one time was at liberty for seven days.

United States District Attorney E. A. Olson announced that the grand jury would investigate the Druggan affair, and also the premature release of his partner, Frank Lake.

The investigation apparently was hastened by the assault by Druggan in the jail on John Lovering, a Journal reporter.

Grand Jury Action On Baby Poisoning Case Sought Today

Trial of Gussie Hill, 13-year-old negro charged with attempting to poison the 7-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Strother, of 349 Howell Mill road, by putting carbolic acid in a bottle of soothing syrup, was postponed Monday in juvenile court.

County Policeman J. T. Davis requested postponement of the hearing further investigation and will try to have the case brought before the Fulton county grand jury for action today.

CASH REGISTER CO. LEADERS PREDICT GAIN IN BUSINESS

Fall and winter prospects in the southeast for the National Cash Register company were pronounced unusually bright at the annual one day convention of the company held Monday at the Biltmore hotel. About 100 delegates, representing four states, and several officials of the company were in attendance.

The Atlanta convention is one of several being held over the country now by the register company. Meetings already have been held in Chicago, St. Louis and Dallas and others are scheduled for New York, Philadelphia and other division headquarters.

Among officials of the company present were J. M. Barringer, vice president; C. E. Stoffey, general sales manager; J. W. Dozier, assistant general sales manager; I. C. Allen, controller; E. D. Gibbs, advertising manager; C. B. McClelland, G. E. Irving, J. L. Wood, F. J. Nichols, W. C. Wilkinson, S. F. Hill, G. M. Cleveland and W. A. Outlier, Walter Wirth of Philadelphia, southeastern district manager, presided.

COURT DISMISSES SUIT FOR RECOVERY OF 2 REMBRANDTS

New York, September 14.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis today dismissed the action brought by Prince Felix Youssouppoff for the recovery to him by Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia banker and sportsman, of two Rembrandt portraits.

The prince contended that he had given the pictures to Mr. Widener, either as security for a chattel mortgage or as a sale with the right to repurchase, upon repayment of the purchase price with 8 per cent interest.

Justice Davis, in his opinion filed today, held that it was a sale with a conditional right to repurchase whenever the prince found himself financially able to keep and enjoy the pictures. If, however, at any time within ten years from August 12, 1921, the prince wished to dispose of the pictures, Davis held that Widener should have the right to buy them.

DR. HENRY CARTER DIES AT CAPITAL

Washington, September 14.—Dr. Henry R. Carter, assistant surgeon general of the United States, died at his home here today after a long illness.

Born in Carolina county, Virginia, in 1852, Dr. Carter was considered one of the foremost medical and sanitary specialists in the country. He founded the present military quarantine system, and was nominated for the Nobel prize in connection with his discoveries in connection with yellow fever.

He inaugurated control measures for malaria in the extra cantonment areas during the world war, and was a member of many scientific bodies relating to medicine and hygiene, both American and foreign, including the American club of Great Britain. He formulated the doctrine of the control of the yellow fever-bearing mosquito as the sole method necessary for the elimination of endemic centers of this disease.

He was intimately associated with Surgeon General Gorgas and Dr. Walter Reed throughout the greater parts of their careers, particularly in the work, study and control of yellow fever.

For many months prior to his death, Dr. Carter had worked on a history of yellow fever, a work that took him into many fields of literature and history, in many languages, and even in many dialects. His one hope was to live until this was completed. Three days before he was stricken with what proved to be his last illness, he had so far completed it that it can be finished by others, and this task will be undertaken by his daughter, Miss Laura Carter.

Insanity Increases.

A comparison of figures on alcoholic insanity and intemperance use of alcohol showed a drop from 1917 to 1921, and an increase since. The report added that figures as to the number of alcoholics discharged from New York hospitals "show in general the same trend that we have been noting but with this important feature, that the year 1924 shows a slight decrease."

Official figures on the number of alcoholic cases per 1,000 enlisted men in the army showed a low water mark of 1.06 in 1918, a jump to 1.18 in 1922, 8.82 in 1923, and 9.13 in 1924. "Much has been said of the falling death rate during the last few years as an evidence of the effects of prohibition," said the report. "It is true that this decline and the increased expectation of life have greatly impressed insurance actuaries, but one

Enjoy Eating

If your blood is pure~
You like to eat

REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? But you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate? And didn't everything taste good? Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S. S. S. is the way to do it. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells—builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be your own self again.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—it's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too. Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

cannot with certainty assign to the prohibition regime more than a moderate influence in bringing about the reduction. It is probable that wherever there has been an improvement in economic status, the tendency is toward a higher standard of living and thus naturally toward improved health and increased longevity.

From the point of view of research method, adequate case records are indispensable in such an inquiry as this. Our knowledge of the effects of prohibition upon living conditions is sadly limited by the fact that for the most part we are dependent upon memories of "what used to be" and we lack records to support our impressions.

An incidental result of this phase of the inquiry has been to reveal the extent to which the illicit liquor traffic has become a means of comparative opulence to many families that formerly were on the records of relief agencies. In one New England industrial town a row of somber tenements has been adorned by Stutz and Packard cars, purchased with the proceeds of a new-found illicit livelihood.

A Case Study.

In this connection may be considered the results of a study recently completed under the direction of the faculty of the Graduate School of Social Service Administration, University of Chicago. The study consisted chiefly of an examination of the family case records of the central charities district, covering the period from October 1, 1918, to July 1, 1919, and from October 1, 1923, to July 1, 1924. The study of the case records was supplemented by interviews with representative individuals in the community.

The district includes the whole of the city of Chicago, and is divided into four sections. There are a number of social centers in the section, a fact which made possible the collection of many opinions on the part of trained workers, as to social conditions. The district includes a considerable colored population, as well as Poles, Lithuanians, Italians, and small numbers of Mexicans, Russians, Irish and Germans.

The examination of case work records disclosed the fact that during the earlier period covered by the study, 1918-19, there were 721 cases current, of which 44 involved the problem of drink. Eleven of the 44 records showed no subsequent drinking. Of the 33 who continued drinking, 17 cases no further information on this point was available.

After a thorough study, the investigator concluded that in a few instances prohibition was "very likely the direct cause of the cessation of drinking while in most of the cases other factors were involved. Of records of the 11 cases in which drinking ceased with the advent of prohibition the attitude of the individual toward post-prohibition drinking, very little information was found in the records. In a very few cases there was some statement which threw light on this subject; but in general the records forced one to own conclusions indirectly from the records. In none of these cases did we find any individual who appeared to have any compensating post-prohibition drinking.

There appeared to be no realization in the minds of the persons drinking that they were breaking a law by drinking "moonshine" just as much as if they went out and held up or assaulted a man. Such a conception of prohibition did not appear to exist at all. It is interesting to note that in most of these cases no attempt was made by the visitor to deal with the problem in a legal way. It was taken for granted that liquor was available and would continue to be. The visitor, like the client, seemed oblivious to the fact that a law was in existence which was designed effectively to keep men and liquor apart.

46 Drinking Cases.

The second period covered, October 1, 1923, to July 1, 1924, disclosed 46 cases of drinking. This was 6.1 per cent of the total number of cases as compared with 6.2 per cent for the earlier period.

In the 18 cases where it was possible to ascertain where the liquor was obtained the following result was found: Saloons 5, homes 4, neighbors 4, pool rooms 3, house of prostitution 1, restaurant 1. The report states: "None of the individuals drinking during this second period appeared to have the least difficulty in obtaining all the drink they wanted, and whenever they wanted. The Derivatives of October, 1923, closed up places for a while, but very soon afterwards drink appeared as plentiful as ever. Further, the investigator says, "it was found that the effects of drinking appeared to be about the same as they were in connection with pre-prohibition drinking, such as non-support, abuse, desertion and the like, with one big exception. The drinking of 'moonshine' appeared to have a decidedly bad effect on the mental condition of the individual which was not present to such a striking degree before prohibition. In seven cases the individual developed a definite mental psychosis due to drink." Again the report says: "More families gave drink as their reason for asking aid of the charities in 1923-24, five years after prohibition, than in 1918-19, before prohibition."

It should be noted that in spite of the unfavorable showing made by this district, interviews with a number of employers in the area studied indicated that definite good results had appeared: "Less absenteeism, more efficient workers, less discharging, much less drinking, healthier and better dressed employees, and more saving." On the other hand, interviews with two physicians, two visiting nurses, two school principals, a visiting teacher, a Red Cross home service worker, a settlement worker, a Salvation Army worker, an Urban League worker, a police officer, two probation officers, and the head of a boarding house for women and children yielded predominantly unfavorable results: "Lack of enforcement of the law and consequently much drinking, the bad mental and physical effects resulting from the 'moonshine,' a class distinction growing up because the rich can afford to buy good drink and the poor cannot, and the continued existence of problems due to drink."

No Final Proof.

Such a study as this offers no conclusive and final proof of the results of prohibition, but it presents conditions which are undoubtedly typical of those existing in many city neighborhoods. In any event, the case method would seem to be the most fruitful method for discovering the actual results of the prohibition regime.

It should be pointed out also that in order to determine accurately and adequately the results of prohibition one would need to go much farther than to inquire if and why the individual concerned continued or ceased drinking. Very extensive case studies would be necessary to find out what is the total effect upon individual character and upon home life of the forcible suppression of the liquor traffic. Probably few socially-minded persons credit the often-heard statement that the use of stimulants is necessary to a large portion of the population in order to furnish "ease" and "escape" from the conditions of a rather prosaic existence. Nevertheless, such a function has undoubtedly been performed by liquor drinking for a large section of the population which suffers from the drabness of a monotonous routine of work. The persistent call of workingmen for their liquor is in no small part a reflection of the aesthetic and spiritual poverty of our industrial system. The forcible suppression of an activity creates new problems and the nature and extent of these problems are among the subjects that need to be studied now. Furthermore, there are doubtless many individuals who have been cured of the liquor habit by the enforcement of the law, to whom personality defects which formerly showed themselves in the form of indulgence in stimulants are now expressed in other ways. The religious and moral forces which take upon themselves responsibility for instituting new measures of social control cannot consistently stop short of taking responsibility for character rehabilitation in those lives which have been forcibly changed.

Deaths From Alcohol.

There are, fortunately, full data at hand from 1910 to 1923, inclusive, for so-called "registration states" reporting to the bureau of the census showing the death rate per 100,000 population from alcoholism and cirrhosis of the liver. (The latter is considered to be predominantly an alcoholic disease.) The graphs prepared by the bureau show that these diseases have the typical form of liquor consumption—a drop in 1920 and a rise thereafter with the exception that the cirrhosis curve shows a drop in 1923. It is noted that the death rate from alcoholism fell lower proportionately prior to 1920 and has since risen higher proportionately since 1920. It would be expected that the death rate from alcoholism since 1920 would increase much more rapidly than that from cirrhosis of the liver because a considerable proportion of the deaths reported as due to alcoholism since prohibition went into effect, and particularly during the last years, were really due to poisoning from bootleg liquor. On the whole, therefore, it might be assumed that over a long period the death rate from cirrhosis would be a better index of the extent of post-prohibition drinking than the death rate from alcoholism. On that assumption, the data give much satisfaction in that the death rate in 1924 returned almost to the level of 1920. (Figures for 1924 are not yet available.)

A comparison of the figures for the several states is instructive. In New York, for example, where violations of the law are admittedly numerous and where the death rate from alcoholism has increased quite materially since 1920, the death rate from cirrhosis has remained almost the same, while, in Massachusetts, the case is similar, only even more striking. Pennsylvania shows like results save that the death rate from cirrhosis has slightly increased. It is interesting to note, on the contrary, that the District of Columbia shows a much more marked increase in the death rate from cirrhosis.

Interesting Point.

Another interesting point is that the alcoholic death rate in Kansas has actually increased during a total prohibition. It had all but disappeared in 1919 but has flared up somewhat since, although the 1923 figure showed a slight reduction from 1922. The death rate from cirrhosis in Kansas shows little net change since 1920. Ohio and Indiana have suffered little increase in death rates from alcoholic causes.

It is a well recognized fact that mortality statistics for alcoholic diseases treated outside of institutions are unreliable, but they are probably just as trustworthy now as before prohibition was adopted, although they may be vitiated more than before by the tendency to conceal the true cause of death. In any case, we cannot escape the fact that over the 10-year period, 1910-20, the curve of death rate from alcoholism follows very closely the curve of alcohol consumption. As already noted, the prevalence of "bootleg" liquor probably tends artificially to increase the number of cases of "alcoholic poisoning" so that the figures are not as significant as they otherwise would be. Refinements of diagnosis may also be a factor in increasing the number of cases in which death is attributed to alcoholic causes.

It has been pointed out by medical men that the clinical picture presented by the alcoholic wards of city hospitals underwent a decided change following the adoption of prohibition. Not only was there a considerable reduction of acute cases for which b-d liquor was responsible, but chronic cases showing the typical degenerative effects of habitual drinking became decidedly fewer. It is stated now, however, at Bellevue hospital, New York city, that there is a drift back to pre-prohibition conditions in the type of alcoholism that prevails.

Alcoholic Psychoses.

Carefully prepared figures are available on the percentage of cases of alcoholic insanity and of the intemperance use of alcohol among first admissions to civil state hospitals in New York between 1910 and 1924. These percentages show the same general curve that are observed in the other indices. The low point or intertempore use is reached in 1921 instead of 1920, but the similarity between the curves is impressive. Figures for Massachusetts, so far as available, show the same tendency.

It should be said, however, that the increase in alcoholic psychoses indicated here is called in question by medical men who insist that many cases of alcoholism are classed as psychoses in the hospitals reporting them which a correct diagnosis would exclude from this category. It is a noteworthy fact that in New York city certain typical forms of alcoholic insanity became exceedingly rare following the adoption of prohibition. Here again, however, it is to be feared that the drift is backward toward pre-prohibition types.

The experts who prepared the statistics, Dr. H. M. Pollock and Miss E. M. Furbush, have recorded the following general conclusions: "Alcoholic insanity in this country is now much less prevalent than it was in 1910, but more prevalent than in 1920. The rate of decline since 1910 has been greater among women than among men. The reduction in alcoholic cases is due to a change in the habits of the people and in part to restrictive laws."

Factors in Morbidity.

The statistics of alcoholics discharged from the department of public welfare hospitals and from Bellevue and allied hospitals in New York city, 1914-24, show in general the same trend that we have been noting but with this important feature, that the year 1924 shows a slight decrease, as the following table indicates:

Department of Public Welfare hospitals: 1914, 51; 1915, 41; 1916, 60; 1917, 51; 1918, 27; 1919, 28; 1920, 33; 1921, 30; 1922, 51; 1923, 59; 1924, 55.

Bellevue and allied hospitals: 1914, 120; 1915, 102; 1916, 124; 1917, 94;

1918, 40; 1919, 44; 1920, 39; 1921, 42; 1922, 67; 1923, 15; 1924, 97.

Alcoholism in the Army.

Another noteworthy set of data has to do with alcoholic cases in the United States army from 1914-24 inclusive. These data would seem to be sufficiently representative of the country at large to be significant.

Admission rates to army hospitals per 1,000 among enlisted men serving in the United States army, due to alcoholism:

1914	13.46	1920	6.34
1915	13.07	1921	6.97
1916	12.77	1922	11.18
1917	2.81	1923	8.82
1918	1.06	1924	9.13
1919	2.15

The movement of the curve in this case is of course due rather to wartime discipline than to the coming of prohibition since the sharp drop occurred in 1917 and the low point in 1918. In 1922 the number had almost reached the pre-war figure of 1916. If that figure may be assumed to have been abnormally high, the curve appears to be still rising. The surgeon general states in his annual report for 1924: "The number of admissions to sick report for alcoholism cannot be accepted as an index of the amount of alcoholism in the military service. Probably an equally important factor, especially during recent years, is the injurious character of the illicit liquor consumed, since this results in a greater relative number of such cases as intonoxians becoming acutely ill and consequently requiring medical treatment."

Vital Statistics.
Much has been said of the falling death rate during the last few years as an evidence of the effect of prohibition. It is true that this decline and the increased expectation of life have greatly impressed insurance actuaries but one cannot with certainty assign to the prohibition regime more than a moderate influence in bringing about the reduction. The trend downward has been distinctly greater among the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's industrial policy holders than in the country as a whole and among these intertempore is presumably a much less prominent factor.

The company attributes much of the gain to health education and there is reason to believe that the same cause has operated on a large scale throughout the country. One of the authorities consulted in this connection points out that similar improvement has occurred in countries where prohibition has not been attempted.

It is probable, however, that wherever there has been an improvement in economic status, a feature of the prohibition regime which we shall presently notice, the tendency is toward a higher standard of living and, thus, naturally, toward improved health and increasing longevity.

Prohibition and Business.

We come now to the economic results of prohibition, concerning which it must be said that they are among the most significant in the series and yet the hardest to measure. Probably no careful observer will say that the abolition of the saloon has not effected a very substantial amelioration of large numbers of the working class. The virtual stoppage of beer drinking alone on the part of millions of workmen might be assumed, even without any considerable evidence, to have had a profound effect on the economic status of their families. At the same time the appeal to specific economic data—increased business activity, growing bank deposits, etc.—to prove the effects of prohibition must be made very guardedly. All attempts to measure this increase in quantitative terms are fraught with danger because of the great increase in prosperity since 1921, due to other causes. The argument most frequently advanced is that the continuing increase of savings bank deposits in 1920-21 as compared with 1913-14, the next preceding period of depression, indicates a marked increase in saving due to prohibition. The outflowing of the liquor traffic must indeed have been an influential factor here, but the fact remains that savings deposits as reported by the American Bankers' association, and reproduced on the next page in bar chart form, show a fairly continuous movement since 1918; while, if allowance be made for wage advances in 1920 and 1921 on account of the increased cost of living, it is doubtful if any great change can be shown statistically.

In addition to the increase in money wages we must consider the extensive thrift campaigns carried on throughout the country resulting in larger savings and a larger number of savers; the popularizing of conservative investments and the tendency in periods of depression to put money in the bank rather than to buy securities on a falling market; the release of savings for deposit when the Liberty Loan campaign ceased; the release of money circulation during the "inflation" period; and other, more technical considerations. But it would be difficult to dispute the assumption that prohibition has been a factor, and an important one, in keeping savings deposits on a high level. Improvement in premium collections from industrial life insurance policy-holders points in the same direction. The disappearance of the saloon and the "treating habit" has undoubtedly been a great boon to the American workingman.

Good authority can also be found for the statement that industry has profited very materially through heightened morale. Were it not for the fact that prohibition has become for personal and political reasons so explosive an issue we should very likely have this time have been able to secure an adequate study of its economic effects. Organizations of business men and employers seem to be afraid to take up the question for study because it is so highly controversial.

It is noteworthy that a questionnaire sent as part of this investigation to a thousand or more business men, directors in important corporations selected at random, asking for their verdict as business men upon prohibition, yielded a predominantly "wet" result—not, apparently, so much because of observed effects upon business or industry as because of strong personal prejudice and dissatisfaction with the social and political results of prohibition as they saw them. ## Tortured by rash on face

Resinol stops itching and makes skin clear and smooth

Piney Creek, N. C., Jan. 4:—"I had a breaking out on my face that looked like chicken pox. I suffered so from it that at night I would not sleep for hours at a time. I tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. It stopped the itching instantly and after a few applications the skin peeled off and left my face clear and smooth, instead of rough and bumpy. I don't know of anything better than the Resinol products." (Signed) W. R. Mitchell.

Miss Elizabeth Gregg Elected To Highest Office of Y. W. C. A.

Election to the office of business manager of the Young Women's Christian association has been given to Miss Elizabeth Gregg by the Y. W. C. A. directors with congratulations to the young woman for her years of faithful service to the local body. The announcement of the election followed the directors' meeting Monday at "Y" official headquarters, 21 West Baker street. Miss Gregg will be in her office at 21 West Baker street Tuesday morning, when she begins her first work as one of Atlanta's earnest, constructive business women.

Special Experience.
It was stated at the directors' meeting Monday that Miss Gregg brings to her office the training and experience that she has gained in her years of volunteer work for the association. A charter member of the local body, she achieved prominence during the world war when she was president of the junior war work council that controlled all local Y. W. C. A. patriotic league activities until after the armistice. She was also a member of the Atlanta war work council and a member of the national junior war work council. As chairman of the local Y. W. C. A. industrial committee she did an outstanding work and it was her plan that caused the industrial department to place the industrial and business girls into separate groups, each with a separate secretary and departmental program. Following the successful plan Miss Gregg was chairman of the younger business girls' clubs. She was also chairman of the Y. W. C. A. social committee and since January 1925, has served as chairman of the Y. W. C. A. finance committee.

Member of Committees.
It was stated that she is also a member of the association's Camp Highland committee and of the health education committee, a trustee for the Lewis H. Beck Y. W. C. A. educational fund. This young woman has served since 1916, as treasurer of the woman's auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.

Mrs. W. R. Prescott, president of the association, stated that Miss Gregg at one time conducted the employment and rooming agency departments of the Y. W. C. A. and it was then that she demonstrated her executive ability which was a strong factor in the decision of the board of directors to place her as the official head of the association.

Miss Thomas To Be Honored at Parties.

Honoring Miss Irene Thomas, whose marriage to Dr. Green Dodd Warren will be an event of October 1, will be many lovely affairs.

Among those entertaining will be Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Adams, who will entertain Miss Thomas and Dr. Warren with a small buffet supper Sunday evening at their home on Piedmont avenue.

Tuesday, September 22, Miss Emma Scott will give a tea at her home on Peachtree street, complimenting Miss Thomas.

Miss Nelson To Be Hostess at Tea.

Miss Margaret Morgan, Erskine Jarragin and Emma Nixon, a group of charming brides-elect, will be group guests at the tea to be given by Miss Margaret Nelson Wednesday afternoon, September 23, at her home on East Fifteenth street. Shining honors with them will be Mrs. Robert L. Foreman, Jr., a recent bride.

Miss Nelson will act as bridesmaid at the wedding of the bridegroom, and was also an attendant at the marriage of Mrs. Foreman, which was solemnized in April at the Piedmont Driving club. She will be assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Henry P. Nelson, and her sisters, Mrs. Fay Weeley Ream and Miss Louise Nelson.

Miss Lena Swift Is Honor Guest.

Miss Lena Swift was honor guest at the luncheon given Monday by her cousin, Miss Corinne Buchanan, at her home on Peachtree road. Miss Swift left Monday evening for St. Mary's school in Raleigh, N. C.

Sponsors Announced For Football Game.

Miss Nell Clayton and Miss Nell Brawner, attractive members of the college set, will be sponsors for the Georgia Tech football team which meets Oglethorpe University team at Grant field Saturday afternoon, September 26.

The initial Chi Phi tea-dance of the season will follow this football game at the chateau house on East North avenue. This series of tea-dances is an annual affair, and in the past has proved to be one of the most popular events of the college social calendar.

Mildred Doughty Honored in New York.

Little Miss Mildred Harman Doughty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon S. Doughty, of New York, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harman, Sr., will be very interested

VII—The Later Discoveries of Columbus

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHEN IN 1493, COLUMBUS RETURNED TO THE SCENE OF HIS DISCOVERY HE HAD NO DIFFICULTY IN OBTAINING SHIPS AND MEN.

ON THIS VOYAGE HE DISCOVERED THE ISLAND OF JAMAICA, THE LESSER ANTILLES, AND BUILT THE SETTLEMENTS OF ISABELLA AND SAN PEDRO DE MARI (HISPANIOLA).

IN THE ANTILLES COLUMBUS FOUND A WARLIKE TRIBE OF NATIVES CALLED CARIBS, FOR WHOM THE CARIBBEAN SEA IS NAMED.

ON HIS THIRD VOYAGE (1498) HE DISCOVERED TRINIDAD, THE CONTINENT OF SOUTH AMERICA AND THE ORINOCO RIVER.

AT THIS TIME COLUMBUS TELL A PREY TO THE PLOTS OF JEALOUS ASSOCIATES AND FOR HIS FAILURE TO FIND THE FADED WEALTH OF THE INDIAS WAS SENT BACK TO SPAIN IN CHAINS (1500) BY BOBADILLA, WHO HAD COME OVER AS ROYAL GOVERNOR.

COLUMBUS WAS RELEASED BUT SUPERSEDED BY ANOTHER AS VICEROY OF THE INDIAS. IN 1502 HE MADE HIS LAST VOYAGE EXPLORING THE SOUTHERN SHORES OF THE GULF OF MEXICO. HE RETURNED TO SPAIN AND DIED AT VALLADOLID IN 1506, UNWARE THAT HE HAD FOUND A NEW CONTINENT AND THINKING THAT HIS DISCOVERIES WERE PARTS OF ASIA.

TOMORROW: JOHN AND SEBASTIAN CABOT.

er were her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Spiker, and Miss Helen Knox Spiker.

Miss Treutel Weds Mr. Cooper, of Atlanta.
The wedding of Miss Isabel Treutel to Robert James Cooper, of Atlanta, Ga., was solemnized Thursday, September 10, in Mobile, Ala., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Treutel, 10 S. Monterey street. Father, Cuck, of St. Mary's church, officiating.

Owing to a recent bereavement in the groom's family the ceremony was a quiet affair involving only the immediate families present.

The bride, since her graduation from Barton, has been a popular young school teacher in the Mobile public schools. The groom, who is the only son of Mrs. L. L. Cooper, of Auburn, is a graduate of the Alabama Polytechnic institute, and later completed his education in electrical engineering at Pittsburgh, is now connected with the Atlanta Power and Railway company of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left immediately after the ceremony for Montgomery and Auburn, where they will visit the groom's mother and sister before going to their future home in Atlanta.

Miss Edna Maie West Weds Mr. Lattimore.
Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hutchison West announced the wedding of their daughter, Edna Maie West, to Eugene Lattimore, of Washington, D. C. The young couple are at home to their friends at 1542 Lamont street, Washington, D. C.

Forrest Ave. P. T. A. To Meet Wednesday.
The first meeting of Forrest Avenue Parent-Teacher association will be held Wednesday afternoon, September 16, at 3 o'clock in the school auditorium. All mothers and friends of the school are cordially invited to come.

Many interesting plans have been made by the executive board but without the cooperation of all parents these plans cannot be carried out.

Mrs. George Howson, president of Atlanta P. T. A. council will be the speaker. Subject: "Why Have a Parent-Teacher Association?"

After the meeting there will be an informal reception to the principal and teachers and a social hour will be enjoyed.

Miss O'Donnell Honored at Party.
An interesting event of the past week was the surprise farewell dance, given at the Knights of Columbus hall, Friday evening, in honor of Miss Catherine O'Donnell, who is leaving this city for Montreal, Canada, this week.

Miss O'Donnell was also honor guest at a buffet supper, given by the members of the Immaculate Conception club, of which club she is secretary. The club colors, blue and white were used in decorations, and Miss O'Donnell was presented with a lovely gift, as a token of love and esteem with which she is held by each member of the club.

Miss Evans Weds Mr. Whittlesey.
Savannah, Ga., September 14.—The wedding of Miss Lillian Beverly Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Willis Evans to Cornelius

Mother's Friend recommended for expectant mothers
"I can not praise in words the good Mother's Friend did me. I am now the mother of three children and had always suffered terribly during pregnancy. This time I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 10 minutes when my 9 pound girl arrived. I am ready to recommend it to every expectant mother." (Signed) Mrs. Ted Jaramillo, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. It is sold by all druggists.

Being a breezy column of Fashion "pick ups", news notes and items of interest to Women about shoes.

It's Here!

REMEMBER when we were little kiddies how the startling announcement—"It's here!" on circus day used to send a thousand little tingling thrills through us. Now since we've grown up the circus stuff doesn't affect us that way anymore; but there are other things that do.

For Instance!

FORMAL presentations of beautiful things to wear—shoes, hats, gowns, etc. serve to give us quite the same sensations we used to get on circus day. Last week I told you of the coming of such an event and now "It's here." I refer to "Nisley Week in America."

Real Clever!

THAT expression fell from hundreds of lips all day yesterday as discriminating women viewed with unconcealed admiration the Seventy Exquisite fall shoe styles presented by the Nisley Company—all at $5 a pair.

An Innovation!

UNQUESTIONABLY the most pleasing and I dare say the most startling part of this unique presentation is the fact that Nisley's Beautiful Shoes are made in every size from 2 1/4 to 9-AAA to D which insures a perfect fit for every type of feminine foot. Unusual indeed at $5 a pair.

Bubbling Over!

EVER since the day that I was chosen to sponsor this affair and to act as national hostess to "Nisley Week" guests, I have felt just a little reluctant to boost it in my column as much as I would have liked to, but since the "spirit of the occasion" has taken hold of me (as it will take hold of you, too) I just simply can't say enough in favor of it. It is marvelously worth while.

All This Week!

YOU must come to this affair before the week is over. But if your husband, father or guardian has cautioned you not to spend any money this week you had better bring your "will power" with you. The temptation to be fitted in these beautiful fall shoes at $5 a pair is absolutely irresistible—once you see them. But come anyway—no one, except the shoes themselves, will urge you to buy.

DISTRESSING SYMPTOMS OF INDIGESTION RELIEVED

"I was sick with a terrible burning in my stomach," says Mr. W. A. Orr, a resident of Great Falls, S. C., describing the disorders with which he was troubled some time ago.

"When I would eat, my stomach would ache, and such a terrible burning inside! I got thin. My skin was yellow. I was so weak I could not do my work. I had a breaking-out, and I simply was getting worse and worse."

"Some one asked me why I didn't use Black-Draught. I thought I could at least give it a trial. After the first dose or two I was so weak I rested for a few days, then began taking it regularly."

"I felt like I wanted to eat. I had suffered so much I was almost afraid to, but I began. I noticed first that the burning quit, then the pain. After a few weeks I wasn't afraid to eat and my skin got clearer. I felt much better. I grew stronger, have been better ever since, was able to go back to work and have worked ever since."

"My daughter," says Mr. Orr, "would hurry home to meals and hurry eating, until she began having indigestion. She got so thin and weak until I was afraid she was going to get down in bed. She was away from work half the time. Her skin was yellow and we were uneasy about her."

"We decided she should try Black-Draught, too. She took it for a few weeks, regularly, and it acted on the liver, her skin cleared up, she began to eat, she gained until she looked fine. Her skin is clear now and she weighs more than she ever has."

"My wife has used Black-Draught for headache, colds and indigestion for a long time. We keep it on the shelf and think there is nothing like it."

Sold everywhere. JA-13

"Fine Arts Club" Plans Special Programs for Coming Year

Many delightful programs will make this season of the Fine Arts club one of particular interest. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 22, at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. Vasey Rainwater, on Springdale road. Mrs. William H. Kiser, first vice president, will preside. The officers of the Fine Arts club are Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, president; Mrs. William H. Kiser, first vice president; Mrs. Frank Inman, second vice president; Mrs. Joel Hurt, Jr., treasurer; Mrs. William P. Hill, secretary; and Mrs. George Street, publicity chairman.

At this first meeting Miss Madeline Kepp will give a talk on antique pewter, Sheffield and Paul Revere silver. Afterwards the members of the club will have the privilege of viewing the Paul Revere house, which Mr. and Mrs. Rainwater have built in perfect replica of the Paul Revere house in Boston. This house, which is a work of art, is furnished with pieces of antique unsurpassed in any museum or art gallery.

Paul Revere House.
A large and especially unusual collection of antique will be particularly interesting. An artistic log fence surrounds the house. First, you enter into an enchanting garden, in which a rock wall is perhaps the most beautiful thing. An array of bright, colorful, old-fashioned flowers give a charming effect, along with other fascinating things. In the large living room of the house there is a mammoth rock fireplace, with an old oven. Every detail of the house is carried out and every piece of the furnishings were brought from Boston.

On the evening of October 13 at 8:30 o'clock Miss Florence Eastern, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, will be presented in concert at the Atlanta auditorium under the auspices of the Fine Arts club. Miss Eastern endeavored herself to Atlanta on her last appearance here with the Metropolitan Opera company in the spring, when she sang her way into the hearts of all who heard her. The members of the Fine Arts club will occupy the boxes at this performance. The Fine Arts club will have its meeting of November 10 with Mrs. Hughes Spaulding, at 11 o'clock, at her home on Peachtree road.

Japanese Program.
On December 8 there will be a meeting at the Piedmont Driving club, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Michitaro Onagawa, in "Japanese Plays and Japanese Programs," will present to the members of the club the drama, music, the dance and legends of the Far East.

The hall room of the club will be beautifully decorated for this occasion with cherry blossoms and umbrellas that will give a fairy-like appearance. Following this charming performance tea will be served.

The January meeting will be held in the drawing room of the home of Mrs. William Candler.

In February the Fine Arts club will present the "French Marionettes" in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club, in the afternoon, so the children will have the privilege of seeing them.

The March meeting will be held in the afternoon at the Piedmont Driving club.

Dances in Moonlight.
The April meeting will be held in the music room of the home of Mrs. Cobb Caldwell.

The May meeting will take place in the beautiful gardens surrounding the home of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, on Pace's Ferry road. This will be in the evening in the moonlight, when Mrs. George Potter Spiker will present her pupils in special dances, with elaborate lighting effects and orchestration.

It is requested that the members who have not sent in their membership dues do so immediately, or by the first meeting, as vacancies will be filled. Send dues to Mrs. Joel Hurt, treasurer, 6 Palisades road.

East Lake Club Is Scene of Dance.
The all fresco dinner-dance held on the lovely terrace at the East Lake Country club Saturday night presented a gay and colorful scene, assembling a large number of members and visiting guests.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Barber entertained a group of friends who are leaving for Havana, Cuba. Those included were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Yancy, Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon King, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCarty, Miss Marion Dean, and Roy Barker.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seitzinger entertained Charles R. Hill of Cincinnati, Ohio, and John Weick of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shepard's guests were Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jones, Miss Elizabeth Jones, Miss Margaret Jones and Miss Katherine Jones dined together.

Miss Dasher Weds Lester H. Heath.
Mr. L. Dasher, of Jacksonville, Fla., announces the marriage of her daughter, Gladys, to Lester H. Heath, of Jacksonville, formerly of Atlanta, the ceremony having been performed September 12 at the home of the bride, 216 James street, Rev. Paul Ellis officiating. Only members of the immediate families being present.

Miss Ruth Auchumley Weds Ruffen H. Nelson.
Centering sincere and cordial interest throughout the state was the marriage of Miss Ruth Auchumley, of Cartersville, Ga., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Auchumley, of Stilesboro, Ga., to Ruffen H. Nelson, of Sarasota, Fla., formerly of Cartersville, which took place Thursday at 3 o'clock at the Presbyterian manse in the presence of friends and relatives. Rev. Richard C. Wilson performed the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a gown of black satin fashioned with low waist line and full circular skirt, exquisite appliqued roses were the only trimming. She wore a small hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will visit many points of interest in Florida before going to their home at Sarasota, Fla.

Women Voters Request Chairmen To Meet.
Mrs. R. L. Turman, president, earnestly requests that all officers of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and all committee and ward chairmen be present at an important conference at league headquarters, 420 Connally building, on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. All members of the league who are interested in the coming state convention to be held in Atlanta on October 8, 9 and 10, are also urged to attend this meeting.

Clear White Skin—Yours Tomorrow!

Underneath every muddy, sallow or rough skin is the original glow of a youthful complexion. These and other skin imperfections like blackheads, pimples, freckles, form a mask over a healthy skin. Here is the secret of restoring your skin to its lovely white clearness. Try this 3 Minute Test: Before retiring apply a coating of Concentrated Marsha Bleach. No massage, no rubbing. Look into the mirror the next morning and you will be delightedly surprised at the new clear, white softness of your skin. It will astonish you to see the improved condition of any blackheads, pimples, freckles or other skin imperfections which you may have.

Money Back Guarantee: If your skin is not perfectly white and clear if all your blackheads and other skin imperfections have not disappeared after five days' treatment of Concentrated Marsha Bleach, return the unused portion of the cream to your dealer. He will refund your money on a cent.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief? In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

THE PEARL HEADED PIN

BY ROY VICKERS

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

Cornboise's declaration was unanswerable, thought Joan. Everything he said was unanswerable. She had been a concealed little fool to think that she could handle such a man. She hit out blindly in defense of her mother.

"You cannot pretend that my mother murdered Mr. March. He is known to have been alive half an hour after she left Cordways House." "True! Do you think I had forgotten that fact when I told you she would in all probability be hanged if Selkirk were taken?"

Then, if she didn't kill him, how could she possibly be in danger of hanging?" "Ah, how!" echoed Cornboise. "A subtle question. Quite impossible to give the answer. Now, if I were bribing you into marrying me I would say that I would tell you—on our honeymoon."

"And if I found you were cheating me?" "he tried desperately." "You could step out of the train. The mere pleasure of being entitled to call you 'Mrs. Cornboise' would not be worth the cost of the marriage license. . . . Will you marry me, Joan?"

He had come close to her; he was bending away from him; his hands on the arms of her chair so that she could not draw away from him; his face was very near hers. She felt his nearness like a drug.

"Oh, what would be the good of a promise extorted like this!" she whispered. "I'm going to speak to my mother before I even think—"

"Speak to her carefully. If you report this conversation word for word, she probably will go to the police and give herself up. She is very fond of you—and she thinks I would make you a thoroughly bad husband."

"But why? If she thinks that, it must be because she knows that—that—"

She stopped, realizing that she lacked the courage to accuse Cornboise of murder. Already he had established an ascendancy over her. . . . She was tugging nervously at her gloves.

"That I murdered Edward March? O, dear no! She knows, for absolutely certain, that I did not. You can ask her that. . . . Stop flustering, child. I'm not going to pick you up and kiss you against your will, or anything of that kind." He stepped back deliberately. "You are tired. Go home to bed. And tomorrow favor my proposal with a little thought. Good night, my dear."

He put her arms around her and then held the door open. He raised his voice and called—"Hemmingway!" whereupon Selkirk appeared.

"Call Miss Hallett a taxi, please."

Detective Inspector Rason was a bachelor, untroubled by domestic routine. An hour after his brief and somewhat astonishing conversation with Colonel Hallett, he was dining alone at his favorite restaurant in the neighborhood of Fleet street, still trying to find the motive for Mrs. Hallett's lie.

"We know she couldn't have been present at the murder itself. The times prove that," he summed up. "She might have been an accessory before the fact. She may even have arranged the whole thing with somebody else. She wanted to be alone in Cordways House between 5 and 5:30. She got her caretaker out of the way by making the confederate telephone and pretend to be Colonel Hallett. . . . She therefore wished to do something in that house at that time or see somebody in that house at that time that the caretaker must not know about."

"She could not have done anything in that house between 5 and 5:30 that could have any significance. Therefore, she must have seen or wanted to see some one who had some significance. A confederate? Back to Selkirk!"

"Why meet him there? It was the silliest place in the world to meet a confederate, since it involved removing the caretaker."

"But March was expected. Therefore, she probably did meet March. Further, she must have had some reason for wanting everybody to believe that she did not meet March at that time—a reason unconnected with her supposed flirtation with March. H'm! That's a bit of a corker!"

He consulted some notes of the evidence of the inequity. "Well, the bit about the caretaker was a lie. What else could be a lie? The visit of Selkirk to her flat in the afternoon? No, that's obviously true. Her ignorance of the contents of the will? Possibly true, anyway unimportant. That bit about the pearl-headed pin. True or false? Rather important, that. If it could be proved that she did not give it to him yesterday week—it might be possible to prove that she did give it to him between 5 and 5:30 on Monday afternoon. Difficult line to follow up. Means questioning the servants."

He intended to look into Scotland Yard once more before going home for the night, as he expected to hear of the arrest of Selkirk. He was in no hurry, however, and as he strolled back through the Temple he looked up at Ray Bristowe's window and saw that the light was burning behind it.

He hesitated for a moment and then made for the "staircase."

Ray Bristowe started at the knock of the outer door—started with relief. The knock on the outer door meant interruption of his thoughts—and that at the moment was what he badly needed.

The memory of that last interview with Joan, of the strange, stricken look in her eyes as she had left him, was not good company. Not for a moment did he regret the part he had played. He had simply spoken with complete honesty. Nevertheless, he had begun to wonder whether he could not have been just as honest and a little more gentle.

"Hallo, Rason!" "If I'm in the way, say so," returned Rason, and for answer was urged into the office sitting room.

"There's still some whisky left—a relic of my bygone prosperity! Sit down and help yourself."

"Well, just a little one if you will join me," answered Rason. "Say, there's nothing in that joke about the whisky, is there?"

"My dear fellow, there's a quarter of a million in that little joke. Though, if you want to be literal, I suppose schoolmasters can afford whisky, but I'm very doubtful whether the same applies to barristers with what amounts to the nucleus of a practice."

Rason scowled at his boots. He had a genuine fondness for Ray Bristowe which had sprung into being at their first meeting when Bristowe had instantly recognized that Rason was no ordinary detective, but a man of his own education.

"Since you are talking about your affairs—I admit I somehow took it for granted that Mrs. Hallett would make some arrangement."

For a moment Ray was silent and then: "Mrs. Hallett very generously offered to do so, but in the circumstances I felt that I could not accept," he answered. He would keep his promise to Joan with the utmost thoroughness.

Rason seized upon the chance phrase. "Yes, the circumstances are a wee bit peculiar. To begin with—"

"Don't think me unfriendly, old man," cut in Ray, "if I say that I don't feel like discussing my affairs just now."

Rason laughed good humoredly. "Isn't it a little bit difficult to see just where your affairs end and mine begin?" he asked.

of the seaplane PN-9, No. 1, will sail for San Francisco Thursday on the U. S. S. Idaho.

The disposition of their seaplane, in which they floated and sailed some 300 miles after being forced down within 300 miles of Pearl Harbor by lack of gasoline, still is undecided.

Commander Rodgers and his mates still were resting today, their only engagement being a luncheon of Governor Wallace R. Farrington at his official residence, Washington Place.

FORD SUBMITS PLANS FOR ALL-METAL PLANE

Washington, September 14.—The Ford Motor company has submitted plans and specifications to the navy department for an all-metal airplane, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur D. Mason announced Monday.

The proposed ship would be about one-eighth the size of the Shenandoah, with a cruising radius of 2,000 miles when inflated with hydrogen.

LEGION TOURIST CAMP IS POPULAR AT ROME

Rome, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—A total of 913 automobiles have stopped with the American Legion tourist camp in Memorial park since April 1, and a total of 2,712 people have spent the night at the park, according to a report compiled yesterday.

With but 13 days of September gone, 151 automobiles have registered at the park thus far, containing 485 people. Of these cars 82 were headed for Florida, and one Indiana-car was noted returning home.

August was the largest month of the tourist camp, when 297 automobiles were registered during the month with 840 people.

Rome, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—Prayer meetings planned for business men of the city during the Gipsy Smith, Jr., revival campaign will begin Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Strand theater. This announcement was made by Dr. E. R. Leyburn, general chairman.

O. C. Lam, manager of the theater, tendered the offer of the building, the meetings are especially for business men every one is cordially invited.

The first two meetings will be in charge of Charles Allen, song leader for the revivalist, and after that the

ENGLISHMAN CHOSEN ALLIED VETERAN HEAD

Rome, September 14.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel George R. Crossfield, of England, today was elected president of Fidae, international organization of allied veterans of the world war. His selection came at the end of a three-hour deadlock, with Colonel Thomas W. Miller, of the United States, present for the past year, as the other candidate. Colonel Crossfield's election was finally made unanimous.

After much discussion and several amendments, the congress passed a resolution urging that the "allied and associated powers exert all necessary pressure on their former enemies to obtain complete reparation payments in order to permit the allies to regulate more easily the question of payment of their debts."

In regard to communism, the congress went on record as follows:

"Fidae considers the communist propaganda an international danger and a menace to the world, and asks the allies to take common action against this peril and do everything necessary to prevent the development of such propaganda growing out of the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia."

OFFENSIVE OF FRENCH HALTED TEMPORARILY

Fes, French Morocco, September 14.—(AP)—The French offensive operations in Morocco have been momentarily halted, and the troops are now busy consolidating the positions they have conquered and building new roads in preparation for a final drive over a longer front.

This is the information given to night by the French general staff, which says all the objectives of the attacking forces have been obtained, many of them greatly in advance of the scheduled hour, and that the French losses have been small and those of the Moors heavy.

TOUR THROUGH WEST ABANDONED BY BUTLER

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—Chairman Butler, of the republican national committee, announced today that he had abandoned his plans for a trip through the west this fall.

"I have been led to the conclusion by extended correspondence and personal conferences that a trip of that kind is unnecessary at this time," he said. "Party interest and party activity is such as to make such a journey unnecessary."

"There is a good deal of active party interest at this time. There is a very strong feeling of support for the president and the administration and conditions, as they respect politics, are virtually satisfactory."

Rodgers Prefers Active Sea Duty To Bureau Post

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers, of the PN-9, No. 1, appointed assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics, advised Secretary Wilbur today that his personal preference is to remain on sea duty with airplanes.

Commander Rodgers added, however, that he would accept the position if, in the opinion of the secretary, "my services will be more valuable in the department."

The message was sent by Rodgers by radio from Honolulu. It conveyed the thanks of the crew of the PN-9, No. 1 and his own appreciation for the "honor attached to my selection as assistant chief of the bureau."

In making public Commander Rodgers' message, Secretary Wilbur said he would make no comment at this time as to whether any change in plans was contemplated. It was the general impression, however, that the commander would be duly installed in his new post.

DERELICTION SUIT DISMISSED

Kahoka, Mo., September 14.—(AP)—The case against Frank C. Millspaugh, former state finance commissioner, charged with dereliction of duty, was dismissed today for want of prosecution. The dismissal was entered by Judge N. M. Pettigill, after he had denied a motion of the attorney general to disqualify Charles L. Moore, prosecuting attorney.

MRS. EDWARDS FULLER DIES AT JONESBORO

Jonesboro, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—Mrs. Lou Edwards Fuller, widow of the late James Harrison Fuller, of Atlanta, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. D. P. Melson, here Friday.

Deceased Mrs. Fuller is survived by another daughter, Miss Sallie Lou Fuller, of Chattanooga, and three sons, E. R. and M. Z. L. Fuller, of Chattanooga, and W. R. Fuller, of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Fuller was stricken here about four years ago while on a visit to her daughter.

The funeral was held from the residence of Mr. Melson Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Interment was in Oakland cemetery, Atlanta.

CAPTAIN SMITH DIES AT THOMASVILLE HOME

Thomasville, Ga., September 14.—(AP)—Captain E. M. Smith, 72, Confederate veteran and a member of the honorary escort to General Joseph E. Johnston at the time of his surrender, died last night.

BALLARD GLASSES

Those who already wear Ballard's Glasses know, and the general public is rapidly finding out, that the quality, service and style which enters into every pair of our glasses, repair work, adjustments of frames and courteous attention to each individual patient is not always found elsewhere. Why? Because every man in our employ is an expert in his particular work. We are exclusive opticians, no side lines of any kind. Ask the better oculists and physicians about our reliability, accuracy and high-class optical service.

Don't you read your daily newspaper ahead of any publication that goes into your home?

Don't you know that the farmer reads his newspaper ahead of any other publication?

Do you know that every-other-day The Tri-Weekly Constitution carries the news of the world into over 100,000 well-to-do farm homes of the Southeast?

These farmers take no daily paper, else they would not take this great every-other-day newspaper.

The Tri-Weekly Constitution is a publication over a half century old.

The farm trade of the Southeast is well worth going after.

Save the surface and you save all

The worst is yet to come—

All these weeks on weeks of searing drouth have shown up the cheap paints which looked so fine when they went on last spring. Rough 'em over now with a stiff brush and they will dust away, leaving almost bare boards!

Yet what has ruined those paints this summer is nothing to what the coming winter will do to them! And you can bet a horse on that.

TRIPOD PAINTS withstand the scorching sun because the materials which make them are put together with the idea of resisting drouth's blistering breath.

They stand against winter's wet and the trial by frost just as sturdily. For TRIPOD PAINT, like all good paint, is meant to resist the weather—not merely to look fine for a week or two.
